There was the suggestion of his receptions in Paris as he left the Union Station, the Third Cavalry drawn up at present sabers, the gally attired Marine Band playing "God Save the King" and the "Star-Spangled Banner" and the shuffling of horses' feet. It was the cavalry that attends the incoming Presidents and that attends them outgoing if they go out in death, that escorted the British premier, the Third with its spirited bays and chargers and a fightling record before it became the show company at Washington.

The premier was, indeed, greeted as a king, this man who began so lowly in life to rise to the leadership of his own people and who aspires to set the pasce way of the world.

If there was one message that he tried to get convincingly across in his talk with newspaper men last night it was that he comes here now not as a party, leader, not as the leader of the British Labor party, but as the emissary of the British peoples as a whole.

Will Not Discuss Details.

"Neither your President, I believe, nor myself—I can certainly talk for myself—have any idea of spending much time in discussing details. We should like to survey together the large and wide, the high and deep problems of international peace. We have had our experiences of international war. We have all taken risks in the making of war and in the going into wars. Isn't it time, my friends, that we should take some risks to secure peace? As long as we think of peace in terms of war, we will never get peace. As soon as we think of international dangers in terms of peace and with the determination to maintain peace, then I have got the belief and the faith that we shall mainfain peace. There is nothing that is more inimical to a final establishment of peace than a mentality which assumes that you have got to prepare for a possible Will Not Discuss Details.

"Now America has done the whole world a very great service in sponsoring the Kellogg pact. The pact of peace signed in Paris only a few months ago is one of the most substantial advances toward the establishment of peace that ever has been made, and for that Europe has to thank America Now why should we not go on? We have all signed this pact We have declared that war no longer enters into our minds as a national policy. Shall we not all and always assume that it is going to be effective? That is the whole problem of international affairs, to make the pact of peace not only something that is signed, but something that is signed, but something that is actively influencing us and all international policy.

Sturdy and enthusiastic, Miss Ishbel shook hands with Mrs. Stimson and Lady Isabella, waiting quietly then until the other officials had completed their greetings. She walked with Mrs. Stimson and Undersecretary of State Cotton to the end of the platform and out on the concourse, turning occasionally to acknowledge the shouts of onlookers.

Following not far behind was the only other woman of the MacDonald party—Miss Ross Rosenberg, private secretary to the prime minister—wearing a black coat trimmed with brown fur.

After arriving at the embassy, Miss MacDonald gave the crowd one warm, sweeping glance, shook hands with Mrs. Stimson, and moved into the house as though eager to remove the stravel stains and start for the White House to meet Mrs. Hoover.

New York, Oct. 4 (A.P.).—Chemical analysis showed today that Jeanne Eagels, the Sadie Thompson of "Rain." died of an overdose of a drug taken to induce sleep and thus free the actress temporariy from hallucinations due to an alcoholic psychosis.

For four days Miss Eagels had been suffering from these hallucinations. For two days she had not taken a drink, although a quantity of alcohol still remained in her vital organs when they were analyzed today.

Last night she went with her secretary to the office of her doctor, who had been treating her for a nervous disorder, to undergo an examination. In his reception room she fell dead, an autopsy performed immediately indicated that the alcoholic psychosis was the cause of death, but the laboratory analysis today showed that it was the drug that actually killed.

His mood was almost jovial throughout the reception at the rail-way station and the embassy. While posing for pictures, he joked with Secretary Stimson. As he sauntered through the long line of Marines and the crowds of onlookers, he swung his cane jauntily and occasionally tipped his hat.

The greeting at the station was one of spontaneous good will and friendly curiosity. The crowd, a large part of which had waited from 30 minutes to an hour, was neither bolsterous nor loud in its cheers as the Labor leader emerged amid a group of State Department officials, military and mayaf aids and embassy representatives.

Sir Esme's Sons Due Today.

Early today she will meet Edmund and Francis Howard, sons of the British Ambassador, who are expected from Wyoming to be present during her visit. They are about the same age as the 26-year-old Miss MacDonald.

She will have her own press conference with "lady journalists," the prime minister announced last night. Whether she will make official calls with her father has not yet been decided, but probably she will go to drive instead. While Mr. MacDonald lunches with masculine guests at the embassy she will go with Lady Isabella to the home of McCormick Goodhart, the British commercial secretary, and Mrs. Goodhart to lunch with a few guests, most of them members of the staff.

Shortly thereafter she will go to them members of the staff.

Earlier in the day Senator Fletcher (Democrat), Florida, suggested an investigation, if necessary, should be ordered by the President.

The comptroller's report on matters connected with the Shipping Board," President Hoover said in his statement, "relates to transactions mostly several years ago and all of them prior to this administration.

"It is my understanding that there is no charge of misseasance, but in any event I have requested the Attorney General to study the comptroller's report and determine if there has been any violation of the law. It is only fair to the board and the employes that this should be done."

Senator Jones, defending the board's sales program, said: "We have known all along that the shipp were being sold far below their cost, but we have also known that the Shipping Board got the best price it could for them."

F course, Washington crowds are more dignified than those of other places. It is very seldom that they drop any ticker tape on carry on as they do in New York. The dignity that characterizes high officialdom comes down in lessening degree to the humblest citizen.

About the only time that Washington has been pulled off its feet, in fact, was when Lindbergh came home.

But it must be remembered that there were bands present on that occasion, and there is not the slightest doubt that with bands Washington could at any time be brought to its toes.

Men will always follow bands, too. There is no getting around that and as long as it is only the war-makers that provide the bands men will continue to go off to war.

There would seem no reason, though, that it could not be so arranged that men could get rid of their suppressed energy and their pent-up meanness in great outbursts for peace. Except these peace movements must be better handled. They must have something that quickens the pulse beat of men, something that makes the warm blood race through their veins.

Blease was no stranger to Washington when he first came to the Senate. It was heer that he got his legal education. When he was 20 years old, his father sent him here and put him under the wing of Joseph J. Darlington, one of the most famous lawyers in Washington's history. By day, Blease read law in Darlington's office, at 410 Fifth street, and by night he attended the Georgetown Law School. He was graduated in the class of 1889, along with Justice Siddons, Crandall Mackay and many other local legal lights.

Blease's views on prohibition have attracted Nation - wide attention. While he always votes dfy, he admits that he takes a drink when he can get one legally. Personally, he says, he feels that prohibition should never have been adopted.

Following the inquest, conducted by Sheriff William E. Clark, of St. Marys County, State's Attorney Philip H. Dorsey, ir., and Coroner Dalley I. Greenwell, Walter Norris was placed in the Leonardtown juli pending a hearing to be held either tomorrow or Monday.

Testimony at the inquest revealed that the slaying resulted from a dispute in which Jeston went to the home of Walter and there upbraided that the slaying resulted from a dispute in which Jeston went to the home of Walter and there upbraided that former's employ. Witneses declared that Jeston cursed his brother bitterly, and that the latter finally drew a .86 caliber pistol and fired a single shot, the bullet piercling the heart. Testimony was to the effect that the shot was fired merely to frighten the man.

Priest in Narrow Escape.

Father Patrick O'Neil, priest of the Order of St. Benedict, who twice risked his life last night to plant dynamite charges against the wall of the cellinouse in which the rebellious convicts were barricaded, came closer to death each time than watchers on the outside knew.

On the first trip as he was carrying the dynamite, trailing a fuse wire behind, some one stepped on the wire and jerked the dynamite from his hands. Father O'Neil, who stands 6 feet 4 inches and weighs 215 pounds, made a lightning one-leand catch of the explosive before it touched the ground.

On the second trip a ricocheting machine gui bullet struck the package of dynamite but it did not explose.

MR. MacDONALD'S VISIT.

The thunderous demonstrations on sea and shore that marked New York's welcome to Prime Minister MacDonald were sufficient evidence of the cordiality with which the American people everywhere would greet him if he could find time to mingle with them. Washington's reception, while necessarily less boisterous, is no less significant in its pontaneity and warmth.

It is a matter of pride to the "common man," whether in America or Britain, when one of their number orks his way by force of character to place wherein he becomes "the pillar a people's hope." The democracy of Great Britain is made manifest to the world when its government is entrusted one of lowly and untitled birth. mericans can understand such a mocracy, and are more than ready to operate with it for the world's wel-

Great Britain could not have chosen more welcome messenger of good will than Ramsay MacDonald. If the two nations are to reach an understanding that will insure their friendship, even during the stress of foreign wars, it must be based upon absolute confidence in the good faith of the two governments. No American questions Ramsay MacDonald's good faith, and no Briton questions Herbert Hoover's good faith. Thus the two men chiefly responsible at this time for the formation of policies are fortunate in enjoying the confidence of both nations.

When Anglo-American feelings are ruffled by passing incidents it is well for both sides to look for forts, warships and standing armies along the border between Canada and the United States. They will not find them: In investigating the reasons why Canada and the United States long ago ruled out armaments it may be that the secret of successful naval limitation may be found. At any rate, Britons and Ameri- the Jones-White bill has been halted by an cans can see on the border the flags of their countries flying side by side, symbolizing friendship and peace.

It has been made clear by Mr. Mac-Donald that his errand of good will to the United States does not in any sense imply that he hopes to draw the United States and Great Britain into a special understanding that would be disadvantageous to other nations. On the contrary, he hopes that a better understanding between the two governments will promote good will among all nations, thereby facilitating a general naval agreement. - President Hoover shares this hope. If all goes well, Mr. MacDonald's visit should go far toward placing the relations between Great destruction of the prison is sufficient cause Britain and the United States upon the for alarm. same plane as those that have cemented the friendship between the United States and Canada. No nation has ever complained that Canada and the United States, in maintaining absolutely friendly relations, were discriminating gainst others.

Right-thinking men of all nations will rejoice if the meeting of Prime Minister MacDonald and President Hoover will foster the good will and confidence that are indispensable to world peace. Americans earnestly hope that their distinguished guest and his charming daughter will enjoy their visit and carry away with them only happy memories.

PURCHASERS OF LIOUOR.

The United States Circuit Court of Apheals now rules that the buyer of liquor can not be held guilty of conspiracy in the sale. The ruling was in the case of Alfred E. Morris, of New York, an admitted customer of Joel Kerper, Philadelphia "society boot- But what is still more serious, they were legger." Morris admitted in the court of able to capture the armory. ginal jurisdiction that he had telephoned requesting him to ship liquor in all of the recent prison riots, has been capcamouflaged packages to a New York address and was held guilty of conspiracy. The appellate court, however, in reversing the lower court, holds that transportation is an element of the sale, for which the purchaser can not be held responsible.

Nowhere in the eighteenth amendment or the Volstead act is the buyer of liquor mentioned. This was pointed out by the court which went so far as to say that Congress "deliberately and intentionally" made the purchaser of liquor guiltless of any offense. Whether this be true, or whether immunity for purchasers comes about as a result of an oversight—a more plausible assumptionthe fact remains that Congress at no time has attempted to extend the penalties of the Volstead act to the purchaser.

As matters now stand, the vendor alone is gullty of violating the law in liquor sales, and there always will be found persons willing to take the risks involved for the sake of the large reward that follows. But the court finds that Congress deliberately ex-empt the purchaser of liquor from the penalties of the law. The trafficker in liquor s the man who must take the risk of punishment.

GETTING RID OF SHIPS.

In a report on the financial transactions of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, made to Comptroller General McCarl charges that ships were sold to "irresponsible companies" that "could not or would not meet their obligations," that ships and surplus property were sold at "exceedingly low prices," and, in certain instances, "at materially advantageous terms" and that "the Fleet Corporation at times apparently loses sight of the great interest the Government has therein." The report cites numerous instances in which the Government is alleged o have suffered loss.

With respect to the sale of ships, for exmple, the report calls attention to the sale of seven ships for a total of $16,800,000, of which some $3,800,000 was received in cash and the balance in notes. These notes, it says, amounting in March, 1922, to $13,500 -000, were sold for $2,940,000 to an organization closely allied to, if not actually affiliated with, the original purchaser. On the surface this would appear to be a serious charge, but when one considers that the Shipping Board is operating on the principle of getting rid of its tonnage to private operators at the earliest possible date for the est price that can be obtained therefor, and when it is considered that if a sale is permitted to fall through the tonnage involved reverts to the Shipping Board, it is obvious that there may be good justification for transactions of the sort complained of. The fact that the vessels sold and for sale have gone and are going at a mere fraction of their construction cost is of little importance. They were constructed hastily and during a high-price period; the cost of maintenance is very heavy; the main consideration is to get rid of them. The following paragraph appears in the McCarl report:

What is said here would, it seems, demonstrate the futility of conducting Government business through the me-dium of a quasi-public organization whose transactions are not subjected to the close scruting of the regular Gov-ernment audit and whose needs for ernment audit and whose needs for funds may be satisfied other than by the customary methods of formal requisition on the Treasury and an adequate accounting therefore.

What Mr. McCarl says demonstrates more than that. The Merchant Fleet Corporation is engaged in competitive business. Were it compelled to operate beneath the load of red tape that surrounds the functioning of a Government department it would be unable to compete on an even basis with foreign companies. The McCarl report demonstrates the futility of the Government trying to conduct business.

Congress recognized in the enactment of the Jones-White bill providing for the reestablishment, under Government patronage, of a privately operated merchant marine, the fact that the Government should not be engaged in the shipping business: and it provided, in that legislation, a means for speeding the withdrawaf of the Government from the shipping field. The functioning of unjustifiable dispute as to the "intent" of Congress. The McCarl report, dealing, as it does, with matters that are past history, is not particularly important of itself. It is important, however, as showing how impossible it is for the Government to function as a business man, and as emphasizing the imperative need of getting rid of Governmentowned vessels.

COLORADO'S PRISON MASSACRE.

The murderous riot of prisoners at the olorado State Penitentiary has shocked the whole country. It is distressing to know that such a massacre of officers of the law is possible in a penal institution. There will be no regret that six of the desperate criminals who instituted the riot were killed, some of them by suicide, but the outright massacre of seven guards and the virtual

The riot is the fourth serious prison out break in the United States in less than three months. Five persons were killed and many injured in two riots in New York, and the damage amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars. This was followed by a mutiny in the Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kans., in which one person was killed and three wounded. Overcrowding and mental dejection of long-term prisoners were found to be the chief causes in New York and Kan-There is as yet no indication that the Colorado prisoners had any cause for rioting, except the craving of desperate charac-

It is not difficult to understand why vicious criminals incarcerated for life make a break for freedom at every opportunity. realize that there is little chance for escape but they count life as of little value without freedom. The surprising thing is that prisons are so constructed and managed that a tragedy like this in Colorado is possible. The convicts had a store of bread which gave plain evidence of preparation for a siege Two large butcher knives and other weapon apparently had been smuggled in to them.

One of the major features in most, if not ture of the armory by the mutinous convicts. This puts them in a position to demand their freedom or sacrifice other lives. Why are armories located within the prison walls, where they tempt the prisoners to rioting and encourage the massacre of hostages? It appears that faulty prison construction has been a factor in the recent outbreaks. Regardless of how excellent prison conditions may be, there will always be an incentive for desperate characters to riot. It is up to the States to construct and operate their prisons in a way that will make repetition of the Colorado riot impossible.

CORBINS HOLLOW GUFFAWS

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: Probably the professors and professoresses, philoso phers, philosopheresses, scientists and peda gogues of both sexes who have been explor ing the mentality of the Virginia mountaineers around President Hoover's camp are un suspicious of certain facts. Among these are that the average mountaineer, behind habitual stolidity of aspect, easily mistaken for stupidity, possesses photographic powers of observation and retention and a carefully concealed but very keen sense of humor Each community of them has its special humorist and capable mimic.

Many an afternoon and evening this win ter will be gladdened by guffaws and giggles of delighted mountain audiences as the visits of the distinguished intellectuals are described ludicrously. It will be a fair trade. While the intellectuals are preparing profound contributions for various publications on the defects and backwardness of the mountain people, the latter will be enjoying in tensely recitations and imitations of the peculiarities, affectations, mannerisms and eccentricities, of the intellectuals, of the questions they asked and the tests they submitted.

As a mountaineer myself. I have been stirred to much hilarity by the published accounts of the intellectual mission, or invasion, or parade, or whatever it was, into Corbins Hollow and the other hollows in the neighborhood of the Hoover camp, by the visiting participants so faithfully and promptly communicated to the press. From the reaction of the mountaineers to the problems and tests submitted by the learned and scientific investigators—questions perhaps laboriously prepared for the mental exploration of children in city slums—we have grave reports of conclusions that the mountaineers know nothing, have no sense, and are quite hopeless. I have wondered, with individual cachinnations, what results would be if tables were turned and the mountaineers from their standpoint investigated the investigators and drew conclusions from the answers to-simple tests and questions.

Suppose a small mountaineer child should pick up a leaf at random and ask the profound professional instructor from what kind of tree it came, or to identify an oak from a hickory by the bark; or led him, or her, to a creek bank and asked identification of respective tracks there of polecat, coon, possum, weasel, squirrel, fox? Suppose the learned scientific investigator were commissioned to take the trail and investigate the whereabouts of a stray harrydick-which is a calf not yet at years of discretion-or a shote; or to milk a cow, harness and hitch up a horse, plow a hillside furrow-do any little simple daily thing like that? What kind of report would the test produce re garding the mental equipment of the distinguished lady or gent?

I notice the subject of religion was avoided. On that Corbins Hollow might show somewhat favorably by comparison with some of the most widely advertised of the inquisitors and astonish and bewilder them with its definite understanding of the principles of Christianity. Probably it would be unable to comprehend psychologists contending that the soul is a myth and that men are mere animals with a few special frills; or psychiatrists swearing solemnly, for so much per day, that a man choking his wife to death and then burning her body was the innocent victim of a brain storm and undeserving punishment. does not follow Freud or Neitzsche. It is taken from the Ten Commandments, the Golden Rule, which has but eighteen words, and a few hundred other words, with a couple of parables, from the New Testament; equires no multitude of volumes, develops no fantastic, grotesque, distorted, bloodthirsty or destructive conclusions. The mountaineer hought is simple, plain and straight and does not lean much to suicides, fancily executed murders or crime-barring a little moonshining-or misanthropy or anarchy. It runs along consistently with the thought and deductions of Neighbor H. Hoover and Neighbor Alvin York-the latter distinctly mountaineer product.

For my part, speaking as a mountaineer misguided and deplorably ignorant, I would not swap Neighbors Hoover and York for all the profoundly and elaborately learned who explored Corbins Hollow and probably will write about it cataracts of tedious words and omplicated sentences-for I have done tooken good notice, as we say in the mountains, that the profound and learned frequently appear to gasp for publicity as a drowning man rising to the surface gasps for air.

Of course, the State of Virginia, or somebody, should, and probably will, establish schoolhouses accessible to all Corbins Hollow constituencies, each house with a stalwart and competent teacher provided with old-fashioned school books, an old-fashioned hickory switch, and old-fashioned common sense. Corbins Hollow is no place for educational furbelows and lace work and prettinesses. The mentality is there, all right, and the underlying sound principles are therematerial for more Hoovers and Yorks for coming generations.

Meanwhile, the pretentious, profound, parading explorers will supply the hollow with more guffaws and giggles with which to while away the winter than it has known since the last big circus drew the population. It is even possible that if one of the strangers should arrive again at Corbins Hollow, he or she, may be greeted with the hospitable joviality I have encountered in similar hollows-"Good lack-a-day, friend! Whence do you come? Tarry the night with us." VIRGINIA MOUNTAINEER.

And wish just once again to hear Their childish laughter ringing cless And understand, when it's too late,

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter. By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:
You are well eq You are well equipped for the business of life, except in one particular. You haven't a proper sense of humor.

You aren't alone in misfortune. Nine people in ten are in the same fix. And this defect in their equipment causes them to worry and about to confer informally and unweep and lie awake at night nursing imaginary troubles, much as a man unable to see might people the day with imaginary enemies and shudder in anticipation of destruction at each unusual sound. You think you have a sense of humor. Everybody does. But yours, ike theirs, is little more than a primitive delight in cruelty. You laugh when somebody slips and falls. You cackle with delight when the movie clown is slapped or kicked. The jokes you enjoy are the ones that expose somebody's ignorance or make somebody ridiculous.

I'm not criticizing. All of us are primitive enough to smile at the other fellow's misfortune. But the ability to do that doesn't indicate a sense of humor, and a sense of humor you must have if you would avoid unnecessary hurts.

How shall you get it? Well, first of all you must learn what it is. A proper sense of humor requires perspective, a sense of values, and intellectual superiority.

That isn't as difficult as it sounds.

You see a small girl weeping because her doll has rheumatism. The distance you have traveled since doll days affords perspective; your sixteen years have taught you the little value of dolls; and these advantages combine to make you feel superior to the small girl and her troubles. You are amused. That's the trick. You must develop the ability to chuckle over trivial matters that literal and solemn people take too seriously. You must wash your hands because cleanliness is necessary to health, and yet howl in dismay if the water is cut off and you cannot

If you lose a ring, you must take the loss lightly, remembering that you will lose your life also in a few years. Other maids wept for rings long ago, and the very houses in which they lived have been dust for thousands of years. In short, you must learn that nothing matters as much as it seems to matter. Teach yourself to examine your troubles from a distance, as you see the troubles of others, and think how trivial they will seem next year. If that doesn't enable you to grin at your own absurdity, you are hopeless. Love, edericksburg Battlefield Mus Should Be Purchased by Virginia and Presented to the Nation.

To the Editor of The Post-Sir: Newspaper accounts of relics of the Civil War containing more than 80,000 separate items took me to Predericks-burg, Va., the other day, where I saw for myself how one, with infinite patience, time, and expense has as bled under one roof a collection, the argest of its kind, in America. The Fredericksburg Battlefield Muse of that city, should interest the peoobjects of such value and variety, and so intimately related to the late con-flict that I, as one who fought in the Union Army, felt when merely reading about it that time had rolled back to bare the story of those and pain and redolent with granduer nd glory.

It is fitting that these mute mementoes of those dark and dreadful days should find a resting place in the battle-scarred city of Fredericks-burg, whose streets and fields were seared with shot and shell and redbest, and it is to be hoped that they will remain forever there as treasures of a common country knitted in unreakable bonds of unity.

But the collection should belong to the Nation rather than to an indihands now, who knows what the years may bring? It would be a great misfortune to have the collection broken erhaps the State of Virginia might purchase it and present it to the Nation as an added memorial to the Blue and the Gray as its contribu-tion to the Battlefield Park. Mme. Filipowicz Hopes to Obtain Many Ideas in United States.

A LL the world loves a patriot. of Europe, from a land where patriotism is almost a religion, there has come to take her place in the diplomatic set of Washington a woman with vision, one whose native land is her passion.

"Poland and Progress!" That is the slogan which might be adopted by Mme, Filipowicz, wife of the Minister of Poland, were she an American advertiser. born advertiser is madame, but she doesn't know it. Her interests, she believes, are bottled up in what America has to offer in the way of ideas adaptable to her beloved Poland.

"Ideas! Why America is full of them," she has said. "Your American women are brimming with ideas and plans. I want to absorb all sorts of knowledge for the advancement of Poland. Ah, you American women do not appreciate the swift stride of your star of progress.

preciate the swift stride of your star of progress.

"There are your women's clubs, which I wish to visit to gain an insight into their organization, for my countrywomen need fraternal institutions. I want to play tennis in your quiet gardens, to visit your antional gallery and to study the problems of your Senate—and of the Volstead law. And most of all, I wish to study your schools, the subject nearest my heart."

Mme. Filipowicz sat her tea table in the Polish Legation. Fragile, fair and intelligent is this woman of polse whose wanderings have led her to lands that frings the Arctic and to courts that sparkle with the splender of continental Europe. Her eyes, blue and shining, invite confidence; her mouth is used to harboring smiles; her forehead, wide and white, reveals the intellectual type. In her afternoom dress of blue creps, she was like a rare piece of lapislazuli against the background of ivory-paneled walls of the legation salon.

It is easy to talk and listen to this newcomer to the Western World, for immediately one finds apparent two personalities. The one reaching toward the ever-widening scope of public endeavor: the other confined within the home where domestic efficiency vies with the ideals of the artist.

For Mme. Filipowicz was a sculptor.

niciency vies with the ideals of the artist.

For Mme. Pilipowicz was a sculptor. Born on the eastern border of Poland, where forested hills march to the Russian frontier, she knew the silent strength of the long winter and learned in the schools of Warsaw to portray something of the mystery of sturdy glavs in the clay and marble that gave expression to her art. Later, she went to Florence, where her talents were perfected at the Academie des Arts.

Came years in Paris, the north countries, miany years having been passed in Helsingfores where M. Fliphowicz was Poland's representative. A year was passed in Brussels, a year dominated by the radiant figure of the queen of the Belgians, summed up as "the most vibrant personality Inhave ever met."

Arrived but a few days ago from Europe, madame is a bit statitled at the magnitude of the thing we call organization. There is, she thinks, much that is "organized" in one's home which seems, in this busy land, a maze of centralization and of electricity.

Also there is the problem of club

> York—Ambassador—Apollo THEATRES—TODAY

FOR BOYS and GIRLS IS AT THE

BOY, this is a time that you will remember, and sister, too. You should have seen the crowds of youngsters at the Avenue Grand, Tivoli and Colony theaters last week. They had the time of their lives and we can have the same fun today. The reason for this carnival is that these theaters are starting a new serial picture that is just the kind every boy and girl likes. The name of it is

"The KING of the KONGO"

It was taken right in the wild animal country and shows lions and tigers, elephants and all kinds of animals. There's some fighting in it, too, and a little love stuff, in fact, everything that makes a picture exciting and interesting without a single objectionable feature . . . But that isn't all! The Washington Post is cooperating with the Stanley-Crandall theaters in providing carnival hats, Yo-Yo tops and other novelties that will be distributed FREE. They also have a plan that may enable you to see all the rest of this great serial picture without paying admission.

What Today Means to You

As a rille you are very optimists. As a rille you are very optimists. As a rille you are very optimists. Henry Holliday, of Rapidan, Va., roominent Virginia horsewoman and impetuosity and your impracticable way of doing things often land you in the ditch, but you are too clever to remain there, and you usually come out none the worse for your fall and arrive at your goal with flying colors. You will never learn caution, yet "fool's luck" is always with you.

Henry Holliday, of Rapidan, Va., roominent Virginia horsewoman and a frequent exhibitor at shows on the Virginia circiut, was discharged yesterday from the University of Virginia Hospital, where she has been under treatment for injuries received when thrown from a horse while hunting about one week ago.

Her mount became unruly.

"LIBRA."

To October 5 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:30 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 11:30 a. m. to 9:30 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 7 p. m. The danger periods sare from 5 a. m. to 7:30 a. m. and from 5 p. m. to 9:30 p. m.

A day of inaction is predicted for this date, but it is not entirely free from trouble. Use caution in regard to health and position. Do not travel without need. Do not be disheartened, the stars are moving on to guide you.

The child born on this October b will have a great deal of natural ability, but will need to develop self-confidence. It will be faithful and trustworthy in the performance of its duties, it will have a sympathetic and loving nature.

You have an impassioned and a dramatic way of looking at things. You go to extremes; you think and talk in superlatives. Nearly everything is magnified or reduced in importance by your eyes and mind. Your enthusiasms are fastering and infectious, and you are able, for the moment, to make others see and feel as you do. You are always "alive" and interesting.

As a rule you are very optimistic, and even when the clouds are the darkest, you never say die. Your impetuosity and your impracticable in time of need one could not ask for a better or more can find in you both depth and sincerity. You are extremely loyal and you turn a deaf ear toward all criticisms thrown at your friends. You are savish in your devotion. You are savish in your devotion. You are passionately carin and in you both depth and sincerity. You are extremely loyal and you turn a deaf ear toward all criticisms thrown at your friends. You idolize those whom you love and are slavish in your devotion. You are passionately fond of animals and children.

Men More Faithful Than Women?

Men More Faithful Than Women?

Are men more faithful than women? Terrence declares they are. And they are times when we subscribe to the sentiment he expresses. With qualifications. In our observations we seem to have noted that very unpopular and unattractive men are very faithful, while very much sought and interesting women seem to be the reverse of faithful!

Now whether it is one's sex or one's opportunities that would decide the matter of life-long constancy we can not at the moment state authentically. But we have our personal theory. However, let Ter moe beheard, for his story is word "hearing." Who started the fiction about the constancy of woman? Whenever I read of woman's faithfulness as compared with man's I could laugh out loud. I have known dozens of cases of men going through life utterly devoted to one worthless woman, and endless instances of woman who literally laugh at low or the idea of devotion.

And we consider there is much to be said on this subject. True, most women after marriage are faithful to one man—but how much of this is economic? And how much inherent faithfulness?

We realize that there is nothing to We realize that there is nothing to

We realize that there is nothing to be gained by discovering whether one sex is more faithful than the other—but we do agree with Terrence that man does give up a good deal in his desire, however fleeting, to possess one woman forever and forever What changes of heart may be his subsequently, he at least must have the instinct and the impulse of constancy when he decides in favor of one woman rather than all women. Would woman, in man's place, enjoying his economic fredom, deliberately choose as he chooses, to have one love, and one love only—for life? We really would love to know!

SERIO-COMIC GOVERNESS' BY ISRAEL ZANGWILL.

Miss Olive R. Cameron, a typist in the Patent Office, set a new world's record for copied work ington play Detroit, at Detroit, with 23,000 words in a day's work. This is an average of 55 words a minute for seven hours. The old that rather than play before the record was 22,000 words in seven hours.

In a speech at Tuskegee, Ala, Representative Thomas J. Heflin criticised President Roosevelt for entertaining Booker T. Washington at the White House.

During the coming presidential distance in 1:08 ½; the old record campaign President Roosevelt will distance in 1:08 ½; the old record was made in 1:08 ½;

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS By CHARLES W. STORM

Aircraft Shares.

R. H. G.—Would you be willing to venture an opinion as to the merit of Aircraft Shares Inc.? I recently bought 16 units (20 shares Class A. 10 shares Class B stock) solely on strength of my fatth in the brokers handling the stock.

Answer—The company was incorporated in July. 1927, for the purpose of investing in aeronautical stocks. A total of 25 issues, so it is reported, have so far been selected for investment. This company comes under the heading of an investment true, and it is the policy of this column not to comment on trust issues of this character, as the future success is largely dependent upon management.

Vick Chemical.

H. G. P.—What is your opinion of Vick Chemical as an investment? Notice it pays 44 a share, which would net about 8 per cent. Do you think it a good buy at the prevailing market price?

Answer—Vick Chemical Co. earned for the year ended June 30, 1929, $9.26 per share on the 400,000 shares then outstanding against $6.06 in the previous year.—The stock has recently been split 2 for 1, with an increase in authorized capital to 1,200,000 shares. Of this latter 400,000 shares will be used in acquiring other companies. On account of increased earnings and bright future prospects the company has definite long-term attraction. The dividend now being paid on the no-par common stock is at the rate of $2.50 per annum, as against $4 on the old issue. The yield, therefore, on the basis of the present market price is nothing near so considerable as the amount you mention.

Ajax Rubber.

Ajax Rubber.

Miss B. B. T.-Would like to have your opinion on the following stocks: Ajax Rubber, Briggs Manufacturing Co. and North American Aviation.

Co. and North American Aviation.

Answer—Ajax Rubber is an unattractive speculation. Earnings showing to date on Briggs Manufacturing Co, has been distinctly disappointing. Dividends on the no-par common shares were discontinued in July, 1927, and resumption of disbursements is not in early prospect. North, American Aviation, inc., is under the guidance of important seronguitaes. American Aviation, Inc., is under the guidance of important seronautical and banking interests. This company operates as an investment trust and it is the policy of this column to refrain from commenting on such issues. The writer does not look with disfavor on investment trust issues; but as their success is so fargely dependent upon management no intelligent prediction can really be made in most instances regarding their future.

General Outdoor Advertising.

W. T. McK.—I own shares of Gen-eral Outdoor Advertising, bought at 65. I purchased this with the idea of holding it for investment, but I am not satisfied with the way it has de-clined. Would you advise holding it? Answer.—Sharp earnings attraction in the first quarter of this year for General Outdoor Advertising Corpo-ration does not make the class A stock particularly attractive for invest-ment holding. Settlement of the suit instituted by the Government, which claimed violation of certain sections of the antitrust laws, must, however, be regarded as a favorable factor. Central Public Service Oorporation. W. T. McK .- I own shares of Gen-

Central Public Service Corporation.

Central Public Service Corporation.

J. G. L.—I recently purchased shares of Central Public Service Corporation class A stock. I know very little about this company, but purchased this stock on the recommendation of my broker. Would you advise holding or disposing of this stock?

Answer.—Central Public Service Corporation, formerly Southern Gas & Power Corporation, furnishes public utility service to over 300 communities. Earnings in 1928 showed a substantial increase over 1927 and at present pays a dividend of $1.76 annually on the class A stock. This corporation is substantially in the utility field and generally well regarded, but this column can not advise at what price you should sell.

Highly Regarded for Investment.

K. E. L.—If you had a couple of thousand dollars to invest would you buy American Telephone & Telegraph or International Telephone & Telegraph stock, considering them a safe investment? Do both these companies pay dividends? Is now a good time to buy?

pay dividends? Is now a good time to huy?

Answer. — American Telephone & Telegraph is regarded as the premier utility issue, and while it is impossible for this column to predict what it may do market-wise in the immediate future, for long-term holding it is considered as an ercellent medium for investment funds. International Telephone & Telegraph is likewise very highly regarded in investment circles. The company is preeminent in the field of private telephone operation and supply outside the United States, and controls an exclusive cable system. The current annual dividend of $2 a share is well assured. In the opinion of the writer you tould make no mistake whatever in buying either or both of the issues named. However, it can not be advised as to whether or not "now" is a good time to buy.

Standard Gas Equipment.

Standard Gas Equipment.

Standard Gas Equipment.

J. T. W.—Would you kindly advise me through your column as to the status of Standard Gas Equipment 7 per cent preferred stock?

Answer—On the preferred stock of Standard Gas Equipment Corporation semiannual dividends were regularly paid to and including September 21, 1927. None paid since that date. A deficit of over 89 a share was shown in 1927 for the preferred stock and only 9 cents was earned in 1928. Unsatisfactory results over past two years reflect competition in gas appliance industry with productive capacity greatly in excess of consumptive demand. Under the circumstances, the stock must be classed as a radical speculation not at all suitable for investment holding.

even the great Grove and Walberg in point of victories.

The Cubs can hit fast ball pitching but they have masticated thoroughly the left-hand shoots of the National League hurlers and between the two evils that are seemingly thrust on the Athletics, trust in Earnshaw appears preferable to reliance on Grove and Walberg.

There is small reason to believe, however, that Connie Mack will follow the example of Bucky Harris in 1925 and withhold his southpaws from the series merely because the opposition has a reputation for pulverizing left-handed hurling. Perish the thought. Such strategy would call for little short of mayhem at the hands of Philadelphia fans. Nor has Connie Mack intimated any intention of sacrificing his two brilliant twirlers on the altar of "inside baseball" as did Bucky Harris when he allowed Dutch Reuther to doze on the bench when effective pitching against the Pirates was sadly necessite process. UFFY ANNEXES OPENING DAY FEATURE AT LAUREL

cial to The Washington Post,

AUREL RACE TRACK, Md., Oct. 4.
Fencing in a bold and fearless fashion, Waiter J Salmon's Huffy, a 5-year-old Golden son of Jim Gaffney-Thundercloud, was returned the winner of the eighteenth renewal of the $5.000 added Chevy Chase Steeple-chase Handicap, the programmed feature of this afternoon's opening day card at Laurel Park. Two lengths in back of the Salmon jumper and a length in front of Eastland Farms Stables' Elder came the Sanford Stud Farm's Red Rock II.

But five accepted the issue in the Chevy Chase, the others being Joseph E. Widener's Lizard, which had been installed the public choice, and William F. Hitt's Crumpler. Lizard dominated the running for the first mile and a half of the two miles required but thereafter was never a contender. During the early stages Bowman eased Lizard into a five length's advantage, while Hunt rated Crumpler next and the others were strung out in sheeplike fashion. Passing the club house for the second and final time Crumpler caught Lizard and for the next half-mile the pair raced as a team.

Lizard Gradually

Drops Out.
Lizard, however, showed unmistak able signs of weakening and going to command to the Ed Crump gelding Crumpler drew out and seemingly had the race at his mercy but a bad landing at the twelfth frame eliminated e Hitt candidate.

With Lizard gradually dropping out it. Alibright sent Huffy to the front. while Red Rocket II and Elder moved up menscingly. At the thirteenth jump there was little to choose between the trio, but in the final drive Huff drew away from the opposition, towin by two lengths. This despite the fact that he all but went down after taking the thirteenth obstacle.

As result of his score Huffy added $5.050 to the Salmon coffers, second. third and fourth money being worth $1.000, $500 and $150, respectively. The winner negotiated the 2 miles over a soggy turf in the very good time of 4.13. while Red Rocket II and Elder moved Toe Victory.

Bobashela was a galloping winner of the Potomac Purse, a dash of one nife and 70 yards, for which he was a heavily playes, favorite. There were only five starters in the Potomac. Russell had the mount on the Audley, Farm starter. Milton sent them away to a moving break, and, Bobashela bounding away from his neld, opened up a lead of two lengths in the run around the first turn. Russell then took hold of him and for the remainder of the trip he raced under restraint. The pace was very fast, the first half mile was run in 474-5, and the 6 furiongs were reeled off in 1:13. Bobashela still continued at his rapid clip and the clockers clicked the mile in 1:382-5.

Bobashela finished out the full distance in 1:43, a splendid performance. At the finish he had a lead of two lengths and a half over Martinique which in turn beat Fair Ball a length for the place. Recreation, which carried the colors of Jefferson Livingston was the first horse that Kimball Patterson saddled for his new employer.

Special to The Washington Post. Harrisonburg, Va., Oct. 4.—Harrisonburg, High, 1928 Shenandoah Valley champions, opened the hession here today with a 12-to-0 victory over Clifton Fore in a State Athletic League game.

The Blue Streaks scored early in

The Blue Streaks scored early in the game after a 30-yard run by Weaver and a triple pass which O'Donnell received over the goal line. The last touchdown came in the final quarter, when Riley plunged 12 yards after Harrisonburg had marched 50 yards. Clifton Forge never threatened to acore until the last mirute, when forward passes put the ball on the 5-yard line. The visitors had the pigskin on the 3-yard line when the game ended.

ALEIGH, N. C. Oct. 4 (AP.).—
TheG Generals of Washington and Lee, led by a long lanky end and a stumpy little quarter back, ran wild in the third period against North Carolina State this afternoon to defeat the Wolfpack, 27 to 6.

The brilliant work of L. Williams and Mattox in the third quarter was largely responsible for the four touchdowns soored by the Virginians. Each counted twice. Mattox, with a 57-yard return of a punt, gave the game its biggest thrill.

During thefir st quarter, the teams battled on nearly even terms and then

Swavely 13-0 Victor Over Business High

Manassas, Va., Oct. 4.—Swavely's rushing and passing attack here today was too much for the lighter Business High School team from Washington, and the visitors were forced to bow, 13-0. The largest crowd in the history of Swavely football witnessed the first victory of Swavely over Business in six years. Reichardt, Duryee and Jones played the best ball for Business, but could not stem the tide of the victors. Moore scored a touchdown in the first quarter and Potter went over the goal line for the second score in the last. The extra point of the last score was awarded to Swavely on a penalty. Business. Position. Swavely. Hazleton L. E. McAvey A NNAPOLIS, Md., Oot. 4.—The football squad of William and Mary College, 25 strong, arrived here late this afternoon from Williamsburg, Va., and is an overnight guest of the Annapolis midshipmen. The Indians preferred to hold their final workout before tomorrow's game under the flood lights of Farragut Field.

The air was crisp tonight, typical of early fail, and the fighting Virginians put lots of snap into their practice session, Coach Kellerson devoting almost the entire time to polishing off formations designed especially for tomorrow's fracas. The visitors are hopeful of holding the Tars at least to a small margin.

The Middies went through the day before a game, although no heavy work was attempted. It was a variety session.

Navy mentors are holding a fair measure of respect for the Indians, but are nowise uneasy of the ultimate outcome of the battle. Recognizing that in Stott the visitors have an ace in the back field, Navy's defensive play has been bolstered during the week's practice.

Virginia Netmen Win White Sulphur Honors

White Sulphur Honors

Special to The Washington Post.

White Sulphur Springs, Ve., Oct. 4. The University of Virginia made a clean sweep in the first annual Middle Atlantic Intercollegiate tennis tournament here today when the doubles combination of C. Alphonso Smith, ir., and Fred John, of Virginia, defeated HampdenSydney College to win the Greenbrier trophy, and Smith won the singles championship in a five-set victory over Edgar Ysomans, of the University of North Carolina.

The singles contest between Smith and Ysomans furnished the most brilliant tennis that White Sulphur Springs has witnessed since the Mason-Dixon tournament, with the youthful Ysomans forcing the veteran player to the utmost before conceding defeat. The sets were 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, 4-6 and 6+2. The doubles finals presented the Virginia combination at its best and Sloan and Talbot, of Hampden-Sydney, were unable to cope with Smith's terrific drives and John's brilliant net play. Virginia won in straight sets, 6-3, 6-2, 6-1.

Pitt Panthers at Durham. It is no secret that Coach Jimmy DeHart expects of keep the score down to 9 or 10 points.

The other conference aggregations meet less formidable opponents, but some of them are loaded with high explosives.

Billy Banker and his colleagues of the Tulane Green Wave can count on a busy afternoon with the Texas Aggles at New Orleans, and the University of Chattanodya Moccasins, 1939 champions of the S. I. A. A., would give their collective right arm to take a fall out of the Tennessee Volunteers at Chattanodya.

Hazel, the other outfits on the Alabams aschedule can prepare for plenty for trouble.

Coach Chuck Collins is so anxfous to trim Maryland that he will start ten North Carolina veterans against the Old Liners at Colleg Park. Lipscomb, center, will be the only sophomore in the line-up.

lemson looks a couple of touchdowns better than Auburn, even with Gresham, the varsity center, on the sidelines with Lime Burns.

On the basis of their showings last Saturday, Virginia and South Carolina, which meet at Columbia, appear to be na even bet.

Florida Favored Over

Virginia Military.

Florida is liked over V. M. I. at Tampa, but the always tricky Cadets are pointed for this game and Coach Raftery hopes for a close score.

With Pappenheimer, their backfield ace going strong, the Mississippi Aggies are hoping to give Georgia Tech an interesting afternoon at Atlants. The Tornado is favroed to cop its first 1929 start with room to spare.

Visiting csouts probably will get a line on the real strength of the Duke Blue Devils in their game with the of the line for the case of day.

Jim Montague, Eastern's left tackle, had his sore shoulder severely injured during the last quarter of the game and had to be carried from the field. An X-ray was immediately taken of the injured member to determine the seriousness of the wound.

Up until the time of the lone score of the game the two teams had battled on an even edge throughout.

Emerson Institute will travel to Emmitsburg today to meet the Mount St. Mary's Prep Eleven. Althorigh the Maryland team lost to Loyola High, of Baltimore, last Saturday, it is out to make up for that defeat today. With an unusually heavy eleven, Coach Sanborn's me will probably outweigh their hosts to a man as the St. Mary's team is the youngest and St. Mary's team is the youngest and lightest prep team ever assembled at the Maryland school. However, the home-team coaches are highly en-thusiastic as the team has developed into a fast and amart combination and should make Emerson hustle all Kulaman, from the Nevada Stock Parm, was second, and Water Lad, from M. Tansor's string, was third.

Gold Mint enriched his owner's purse by $950. The race was run in 1:12 flat. Gold Mint paid $4.68 for $2 mutuel ticket.

Gold Mint forced the pace to the stretch, where he drew out to win handly by a length and a half. Kulaman set the pace to the stretch and held on well after being passed to take the place money by a length over Water Lad. The latter raced evenly throughout to take the small end of the purse.

Receipts of cotton into sight were smaller than in the corresponding week of 1928, and those for cattle at primary markets were also lower than a year ago, but hog receipts showed a gain. Movement of freight by rail, as indicated by data on carloadings covering the latest reported week, con- tinued to show gains over the corre- sponding period of last year. Index Shows Decline. The general index of wholesale prices showed declines from both the week prior and the similar week last year. Iron and steel prices averaged lower than in the preceding week, but were higher than a year ago. The continued rise of brokers' loans brings out three prominent opinions. In local financial circles—one of these being that they have reached the summit, the small ascension of this week regarded as indicative of an imminent reaction. Other groups hold the belief that the purchase of stock by small traders, who bought during the recent irregularity, while large holders sold, is responsible. Others explained that many large commission firms increased their borrowings during the week to carry out long-standing orders under the market which were filled on the breaks over recent sessions.	200 Comstock Tun n. 36 76 76 76 76 76 76 76 76 76 76 76 76 76	00 May Post line 8 24 24 27 27 27 27 28 28 28 29 29 29 29 29 29 29 29 29 29 29 29 29	1,800 Tran Air Tr 18 1,100 Tran Air Tr 18 1,100 Tran Air Tr 1114 11,40 2,600 Tr Lux D Pict 10 976 87	17% 13(Chile, Rep of, 6s, 1962, Janu 9% 2(Colombia, Rep of, 6s, 1961, Janu 9% 3(Colombia, Rep of, 6s, 1961, Octo 75% 6(Copen, Otto of, 4% 1845 1963 1845 1963 185	89 \(\) 89 \(\) 89 \(\) 89 \(\) 89 \(\) 80 \(\) 10	hile Copper 5s, 1947 O C & St L 47s, 1977 O C & St L 47s, 1971 O C & St L 5t L div 4s, 1990. eve U Term 5s, 1973 iumbia Gas 6s, 195, 1952 iumbia Gas 6s K 15s, 1952 iumbia Gas 6s K 15s, 1952 iumbia Gas 6s K 1954 iumbia Gas 6s K 1954 iumbia Gas 6s K 1958 iumbia Gas 7s K 1958 ium	93 ¼ 4 91 ¾ 91 ¾ 91 ¾ 91 ¾ 91 ¾ 91 ¾ 91 ¾ 91
ner of Harriman & Co., ind information that the recent failure of Hatry & Co., in London, reported as a $50,000,000 failure, was in reality a $200,000,000 one, and that this was a most important factor in the selling which has been taking place on the New York Exchange, London bankers being obliged to sell large amounts of securities in New York and to make heavy calls on New York bans. SAG IN LIGHT SALES

Most Losses Are Moderate: Telephone Issue Sells Off 3 Points.

WHOLE LIST IRREGULAR

trading were mostly of moderate the and the volume of sales was generally light.

International Telephone 4½s showed the largest break in the stock feature department, selling off more than 3 points to a new low for the current movement. American Telephone 4½s, turning ever to a counsiderable extent, receded more than a point and were well taken at the lower prices. American International 5½s lost fractionally, while Atchison. 4½s dipped about 1.

The trend of the general bond list was again irregular with fractional changes prevailing. Transactions were small. Consumers Power 5s provid a weak, spot, declining more than 2½ points. Nickel Plate 5½s also oftened and yielded a full point, while Shell Union Oil 5s sold off nearly half a point. High grade rails as a group were fairly steady.

Liberty bonds, Treasury notes and foreign obligations drew little aliention. Fractional losses were numerous.

Gastonia labor agitators and strikers of second degree murder.
Otto Mason, a carpenter, testified he saw William McGinnis, one of the guards at the tent colony maintained at Gastonia by the Loray textile mill strikers, fire the first shot. Sheriff I. M. Allen, of Cleveland County, who housed two of the prisoners after they had been removed for safekeeping from Gastonia, said Louis McLaughlin, another of the guards, admitted firing the second shot.

McLaughlin Pointed Out.

A Gastonia grocer, George Moore, testified late this afternoon he saw the first shot fired, although he was some distance from the tent colony at the time. Asked by the prosecution to point out the man, he pointed to McLaughlin after some hesitation.

Danville, Va., Oct. 4.—Despite an improvement in condition of leaf to-baceo with cooler weather, the average price is dropping. This was revealed today when Danville Tobacco Association's figures showed the average price for 500,000 pounds sold yesterday to be $14.06 against $14.95 last Tuesday. The explanation was that the quality was poorer.

With 15 cents a pound set by W. H. Scherrflus, tobacco expert, as the cost of production, the prices now being paid are bringing the farmer no return, though an improvement is expected as the commoner grades disappear. There has been no mass protest from the growers, who are reported to be waiting for the gradual elimination of inferior leaf.

The other defendants, Clarence Miller, of New York; Joseph Harrison, of of Gastonia, were not mentioned in the day's evidence.

The most bitter legal struggle of the day came when the defense sought to keep from the record all of the alleged confessions made to Sheriff Allen. J. Frank Piowers, defense attorney, argued that "the entire transaction is such that it brands the statements as not voluntary, and I believe your honor should exclude this witness' testimony."

Defense Overruled.

The defense attorney argued that the sheriff had not informed his prisoners that anything they might say could be used against them, and that, although no actual threats had been made, the prisoners were in fear at the time, and consequently made statements which they might not have midte under other conditions.

The jury was excluded from the courtroom during the argument, and at the conclusion Judge Barnhill ruled against the defense.

President of Its Virginia Chapters Stresses Need of Fire Prevention.

LAUDS FOREST WARDENS

Richmond, Va., Oct. 4 (A.P.) .- The man's or fisherman's organization exept in the part that wild life plays Chapters in Virginia, says in explaining the objectives of the organization Our wild life stimulates interest

"Our wild life stimulates interest in healthy outdoor play," he says. "All conservationists realize that the forest areas must be preserved if there is to be good fishing and hunting and an abundant water supply for community progress. In agricultural sections, particularly, forest areas influence farming conditions and the economic life of the community."

Mr. Fleischer points out that the Waitonian plan for aiding the forest service of the State is to cooperate vigorously in the prevention and control of forest fires and quotes statistics to the effect that in one year in the United States force fires burned, over an area of 24,000,000 acres of forest land, causing a loss of at least $28,000,000.

Fire Prevention Stressed.

RIGHT - OF - WAY NEEDS

Walton Chapters, he declares, in an organized effort to bring the danger of fire carelessness before their membership, stress the importance of preventing forest fires and assisting in the control of them. He explains that the waltonian code is to recognize duty in preference to rights. "In this," he declares, "it may be said that they support the posterial ald or otherwise, it should tackle the task not only in the light of existing traffic conditions, but with a good look into the future, Dr. S. M. Johnson, of Washington, told the to protect forests but the Associavice and Waltonian chapters shoulder the burden of forest conservation and the development but the pub-lic, too, should ably assist.

Urges Interest in Wardens between two teams, the forest warden team and the confiscation team, with the public as mere spectators, is a dangerous attitude. The commissions of the State responsible for conservation and development of our great outdoors, and the amail group of civic-minded citizens organized to cooperate with these commissions, need and should have the support of the public."

Isolated by Flood

Jacob E. Somers, Farmer Near Luray, Long Ill, Succumbs.

Succumbs.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lursy, Va., Oct. 4.—At 1 o'clock this morning when his home was hemmed in by flood waters—the Hawksbill Creek and "Punk Run" on one side and "Persimmon River" on the other—Jacob E. Somers, well-known farmer of this county, died suddenly at his home 4 miles south-east of Lursy. Telephone wires at the time also were out of commission. Somers and his wife lived alone on their farm. He had been ill for some time, though his death was unexpected at the time. Assistance finally reached the Somers farm house by neighbors crossing fields and making their way over the swollen streams by crawling over fences and improvising bridges.

Somers, 74 years of age, was a member of one of the oldest familles in Page County. He was known as the "cherry man of the Page Valley" for the last half century, supplying more than half of this fruit consumed on the Luray market. He abstained from the use of automobiles, simple than half of this fruit con-sumed on the Luray market. He ab-stained from the use of automobiles, delivering cherries on the Luray market for the last 25 years by means of horse and buggy. The buggy in which he delivered the fruit had been in use for 20 years.
